

	January	<h1>Northern Crayfish</h1> Oronectes virilis Arthropoda/Crustacea&gt;Malacostraca&gt;Decapoda&gt;Cambaridae		More information – Crayfishes of Missouri by William Pflieger, publ Missouri Department of Conservation US ACE -http://el.erdc.usace.army.mil/ansrp/ANSIS/html/orconectes_virilis_northern_crayfish.htm
	February	Northern Crayfish breed in the summer but females don't produce eggs until the spring. Mother crayfish carry the eggs on their swimmerts (little legs under the abdomen) until they hatch, then they keep an eye on the babies for a few weeks.
	March			Coloring Guide Claws: blue-green Head: olive-green Thorax: reddish-brown Tail: olive-tan Or uniformly olive green
	April			Size First year: 23-56 mm/1-2" Second year: 58 -84mm/2 to 3.3"
	May			Other Characteristics The Missouri State Invertebrate is a crayfish. There are at least 35 species of crayfish in MO, the Northern Crayfish is the most widely distributed.
	June			What eats them Sport fish, raccoons, otters, other crayfish and up to 200 other kinds of animals (including humans)
	July
	August
	September
	October
	November	North America Native Distribution Map 	Missouri Distribution Map 	Habitat (home/food/water) 	Home rocks, logs, organic debris as cover
	December	invasive in other states		fertile, warm, turbid streams	What Northern Crayfish Eat Large water plants, other crayfish, snails, small fish, eggs of sunfish, bluegill, trout, and basically anything it can get in its mouth
		Always put your crayfish back in the same stream you got it from!			